President's Report

This evening we welcome the players, Board of Directors, coaching staff and fans of Adelaide City to Leichhardt Oval.

It will be very exciting to see the League's two top strikers in action in Damien Mori and Kris Trajanovski.

Both players are very exciting as are both teams and there is a lot of interest to see who will finish in the top six.

There are five home games to go this season and I trust all Olympic fans will come and cheer on the players as they head for the finals.

Many fans have travelled interstate to watch the team this year which says a lot about the commitment they have to the club.

Coach's Report

Tonight we welcome Adelaide City to Leichhardt oval. Adelaide boast a number of international players, including Milan Ivanovich, Alex Tobin, Damien Mori, Goran Lozanovski and Jason Petkovic. All these players represented Australia in the recent international games.

So John Perin has plenty of quality players at his disposal this evening. We must congratulate Damien Mori on his record breaking number of goals this season.

The top of the table is becoming very congested with only eight games to go. It looks as though the top six race is down to seven teams with only nine points separating these teams. So every game is crucial now to determine the final places.

I was very pleased with the performance of the team at Morwell on a ground that didn't allow you to produce good soccer. But we looked as though we have turned the corner and the commitment was there from every player.

I was particularly pleased with Kimon Taliadoros who had his best game for a number of weeks. Alistair Edwards was also very impressive and we expect to see continued improved from Alistair.

We welcome Milan Blagojevic back after suspension and hopefully we can get the same team on the field for a few weeks running after the continual disruption with injuries and suspensions.

Peter Tsekenis had his ankle operation and all went well and we are hoping he will be back in a couple of weeks. Unfortunately George Valas is now going into hospital for a knee operation so his season maybe finished.

We are certainly hoping you can all get behind us this evening as we need all your help in this very important game.

— DAVID RATCLIFFE

In September 1995 whilst playing against Marconi in a Waratah Cup match, Derek Poimer injured his knee. He subsequently underwent a knee reconstruction operation which can keep a player out of action for a whole season.

However, as a result of hard work and dedication Derek returned to the team on 11 February 1996 and promptly kicked a goal in each of his first two games against Sydney United and Marconi.

Derek is cautious about his return and admits that it will take him some weeks yet to return to full fitness and form.

Derek says the spirit at Olympic this year is the best he has ever seen. Many say that the club's spirit was strengthened by Derek's contribution to the team and by his courage and desire to play.

Olympic Fans by the Bus Load

The club's Ladies Committee put in many hours of work to organise a trip to Brisbane to see Olympic play the Strikers on March 2.

Seven buses left the club full of fans eager to see the game and to enjoy a short holiday on the Gold Coast.

The Ladies Committee headed by Mrs Anesti raised $12,000 for the club. The Directors wish to thank them for their contribution and to wish them well for the rest of the season.

Whistle Stop

by PHIL HAFEY

The referees seminar held at Gerroa last weekend provided an excellent opportunity for participants to increase the data base of knowledge required to effectively control matches. Experienced referees have a large data base to draw upon during a match and they are able to correctly interpret almost all situations. On the other hand, newer officials are often confronted with situations they have never experienced and, as a result, errors occur.

Apart from actually officiating at matches there are many ways referees can increase their data base of knowledge. These include formal discussion on the laws, structured video observation, watching matches (both Australian and overseas) on television and observing other officials in action.

The participants at the Gerroa seminar had the opportunity to watch a Youth League (fixture where particular attention was to be paid to the linesmen, Nathan Parker (a member of the National Youth League Panel) and Jenny Bray (Australia's woman FIFA referee). Participants had already listened to a lecture on linesmanship and were expected to monitor movement patterns, critically analyse decisions and observe referee/linesman co-operation.

There is no doubt that observing skilled officials is one of the best training methods and the performance level of all the Gerroa participants will improve as a result of completing the set activities.

Every now and then something happens during a game that many referees have never seen and Youth League fixture provided one of these incidents. The referee had to withdraw from the match just after half-time due to injury and the senior linesman, Nathan Parker (who was one of group who had never seen such a situation), took over. Midway through the second half the importance of the new referee having a complete record of what has occurred — goals, cautions, timing etc., was reinforced when a player was cautioned for the second time and the referee did not have a record of the first caution. The situation was quickly rectified when Jenny pointed out the error and the player was sent from the field.

At the debriefing session the following morning, and during informal discussions following the match, the incident was discussed in full and the correct procedure outlined. Also, the performance of the linesmen was discussed and movement patterns as well as offside decisions were analysed. It is through this process that referees develop and gain experience and participants will pass on their knowledge to others in their area.

Other activities at the seminar designed to increase the data base of knowledge included a session where questions based on incidents were discussed and correct interpretations given.

The Gerroa seminar provided another development opportunity for referees and the information gained will result in improved performance on the field at all levels of football by both the participants and the referees with whom they discuss the knowledge gained informally or at subsequent meetings and seminars.

"Straight Shooting"

with ANDY PASCHALIDIS (Alias Uncle Stavros)

Australian soccer is fast becoming a breeding ground for English Premier League club, West Ham. The Hammers now boast five Australians on their books with former Morwell Falcons and South Melbourne goalie, Steve Mautone, signing up last week.

Mautone joined the club at a steal for just $70,000 and continues a fine tradition joining the likes of other English-based goalies, mark Bosnich, John Filan, Jason Kearton, Frank Talia and Zelko Kalacs.

"I had trialled with the Hammers earlier in the year and they seemed pretty happy," Mautone told me before flying out last Thursday.

"I've always wanted to play overseas but to be quite honest the English scene didn't really suit me. I always had a desire to play in France or Spain."

Surprisingly, Mautone, had a falling out at South Melbourne, much like some other high profile players like Con Boutsianis and Francis Awaratife.

Only nine points splits the top seven sides with Morwell and Souths given virtually no hope of making the play-offs. Damian Mori broke the record books again on the weekend scoring both goals in Adelaide City's 2-1 win over South Melbourne.

Mori and Kris Trajanovski could be the key players in today's match of the round. Olympic has slipped lately to be three points behind Marconi but Leichhardt Oval is a very good stamping ground.

Last Monday morning I had the pleasure of presenting the Old Firm match between Rangers and Celtic live on Fox Sports. Sadly for Socceroo Craig Moore the game was a major disappointment.

Moore suffered an injury early in the game and was replaced in the 35th minute. It was only his second derby match after conceding an own goal the first time around almost two years ago.

Moore is one of just a few Aussies playing regular first team football in Europe. Another, Eddie Krncevic, is back home after 14 years playing overseas.

He attended the Melbourne Knights — Marconi game on Sunday and his first impressions of Australian soccer are quite interesting. He feels the standard of the NSL was slow compared to Europe and that Australian players are overweight!!!

"I'd have to say half the players I saw out there today are overweight," Krncevic said: "Diet, what you eat, is your first concern when you go to Europe."

Krncevic feels he could probably play for another couple of years but is more interested in coaching. There are strong rumour he will be appointment coach of the new NSL club, Collingwood Warriors.

"I feel I've got a lot to give to Australian soccer but it has to be the right job," he added.

"There are rumours, I might talk to Collingwood and see what their plans are, see how serious they are and see if they know what they are doing."

Krncevic scored 18 goals in 36 games for Australia and played with eight different clubs in Europe, including Anderlecht, Standard Liege and Croatia Zagreb.

And in news from overseas, Portuguese National goalie, Vitor Baia, will be able to play in the European Championship in England in June after receiving a two-month suspension.

The Portuguese Federation could have suspended the Porto keeper for a year after he assaulted a director from an opposing club almost two weeks ago.

Campomaioresen vice-president Pedro Mocela and Porto's assistant coach Augusto Ignacio will face a league judiciary meeting. Porto's 93rd minute winner was followed by chaos on the pitch as the referee showed three yellow cards and two red cards.

Meantime, 35-year-old Boca Juniors captain, Maradona, has received death threats. Messages have been left on his answering machine from fans of rival clubs, River Plate and San Lorenzo.

And former German international star, Bernd Schuster, could be heading off to the United States. The 36-year-old veteran has reached a settlement with Bayer Leverkusen on the premature termination of his contract.

Schuster, who was bound to the club until June 1997, will receive a 2.5 million dollar payout in severance pay. He was believed to be earning almost $900,000 a season with a club currently in the middle of the table in the German Bundesliga. (Does he need anyone to help him with his banking???)

Having not only played for Sydney Olympic, but also captained, managed and coached, Peter Raskopoulos is ultimately an Olympic legend, Peter, commonly known as the great "Rasko", is without doubt the best midfielder to have played for the club. His playing record is brilliant at both club and international level, and he has most certainly mixed it with the best of them. The name Peter Raskopoulos, is definitely well respected and highly regarded amongst Olympic circles.

Rasko began his illustrious career playing for his local club, the Earlwood Wanderers. His remarkable talent became evident at a young age, forcing him to join Sydney Olympic in 1975, aged 13. Coaches remember Peter as a youngster with plenty of maturity beyond his young age.

In 1977 first grade coach Kaz Kulak recognised Peter's potential and gave him the opportunity to make his senior team debut. Peter, then aged 15, became the youngest player to ever play in the National Soccer League. It is a feat so far only matched by Chris Kalantzis and John Markovski.

Peter then went on to represent Australia in the 1979 World Youth Championships. From here he went on to captain the team in 1981 on home soil. An experience Peter regards as the highlight of his distinguished career.

Senior international honours soon followed and Peter became an integral part of the Socceroos. Peter in his career accomplished 38 appearances, including 15 full internationals for the Socceroos. He played alongside names such as David Ratcliffe, Eddie Krncevic, David Mitchell, Alan Davidson, John Kosmina, Graham Arnold, Oscar Crino, Frank Farina, Jim Patikas and Charlie Yankos. All considered as legends in Australian soccer history.

Plenty of memorable moments were achieved at Sydney Olympic, including the grand final appearances in 1984 against South Melbourne and in 1986 against Adelaide City, but the triumph Peter cherishes the most is as captain holding aloft the 1985 NSL Cup. Peter remembers this game against Preston with great joy and pride.

A serious back injury in 1989 sadly ended the brilliant playing career of Peter and brought great disappointment to his army of supporters. The board though had other ideas and the next season without hesitation appointed him alongside coach Mick Hickman as team manager. Under the Hickman and Rasko combination the team achieved the greatest glory in its 30 year history. Sydney Olympic won its first ever National Soccer League Championship.

In 1992/93, Peter became coach of Olympic and after some average performances resigned and handed over the reigns to the more experienced Bertie Mariani. His resignation was a major shock to all the fans, who believed that Rasko was the best man for the job.

At Olympic for 12 years, Peter played alongside plenty of talented players. He lists his Sydney Olympic Dream Team as follows:

- | | | |
|--------------------|----------------------|---------------------|
| 1. Gary Meier | 6. Mick Coady | 11. Chris Kalantzis |
| 2. Martin Rodgers | 7. Jim Patikas | |
| 3. Graeme Jennings | 8. Peter Raskopoulos | |
| 4. Andrew Berna | 9. Marshall Soper | |
| 5. Jim Zeras | 10. Branko Milosevic | |

The Rasko legend believes that the current team is well balanced and has a great coach. After all, having played alongside David Ratcliffe he does know his style. He says that with a bit of lady luck, and knowing how vital luck is in soccer, the team is definitely championship potential. And who can argue with Rasko?
